RE: WG / Request for Normal Value and Export Price Review for France and Lithuania in *Wheat Gluten

ADM Agri-Industries Co. (“ADM”) and Permolux Ltd. (“Permolux”) are the sole two producers of wheat gluten in Canada. In accordance with the CBSA policy set out in Memorandum D14-1-8 (the “re-investigation policy”), ADM and Permolux are requesting a normal value and export price review of wheat gluten covered by the Finding in Wheat Gluten (the “Finding”) and exported from France and Lithuania.<sup>1</sup>

I. INTRODUCTION

There are five reasons why the CBSA should initiate as soon as practicable a normal value and export price review for subject goods covered by the Finding and exported from France and Lithuania. First, exporters from France and Lithuania were the only parties to receive normal values at the conclusion of the investigation, with imports from France maintaining a significant share of the imports and suggesting that exporters are taking advantage of outdated normal values. Second, the current normal values are on their face outdated as they are based on selling prices from March/April 2020 or earlier. Third, there have been significant price increases in the subject country markets since April 2020. These price increases demonstrate that the normal values based on March/April 2020 selling prices are significantly understated. Fourth, data also show that there have been significant changes since April 2020 in the costs of producing wheat gluten. Given these changes in the costs of production, the normal values issued in the investigation no longer reflect current costs of production. Finally, there has been a significant depreciation of the euro as compared to the Canadian dollar which further underlines the importance of ensuring that European selling prices and input costs are kept up to date.

II. CONTINUED ELEVATED SHIPMENTS SUGGEST THAT EXPORTERS MAY BE TAKING ADVANTAGE OF OUTDATED NORMAL VALUES

In the investigation, the CBSA found that only exporters from France and Lithuania had provided sufficient information to determine normal values and export prices; all remaining exporters from the subject countries were found to be uncooperative and were not provided with any prospective normal values.<sup>2</sup> Given this, only exporters from France and Lithuania have prospective normal values that would require updating if there is evidence that they are out of date.

Further, there is evidence that exporters from France continue to export meaningful volumes of wheat gluten at prices that appear to be well below current home market prices and costs. Between January and November 2021, exporters from France shipped 2,452 tonnes of wheat gluten to Canada. See Non-Confidential Attachment 1 (“Import Data”). While this does represent a reduction from their 2020 levels, it remains greater than full year 2017 and 2018 levels. The presence of these significant volumes of imports suggest that exporters are using outdated normal values in order to facilitate their shipments. Of greater concern, subject imports from France in 2021 are the largest single source of imports. As noted in the CBSA’s re-investigation policy, a consideration for initiating a normal value review is “the volume of imports of the subject goods and fluctuations in import volume”. Further, the CBSA will consider a normal value review where “a significant volume of the imports of subject goods are from a particular exporter or a limited number of exporters.”<sup>3</sup>

III. PRESENT NORMAL VALUES ARE AT LEAST 1 ½ YEARS OLD

As an initial matter, the data upon which the normal values are based is at least 1 ½ years old. The CBSA issued its final determination in Wheat Gluten on March 23, 2021.<sup>4</sup> The investigation had a period of investigation (“POI”) of January 1, 2019 to April 30, 2020.<sup>5</sup> By consequence, normal values established in that investigation are based on costs and selling prices on the last 60-day period of the POI – i.e. March and April 2020 – or earlier. These normal values, therefore, are based on cost and price information from one-and-a-half years ago or more. As set out in the re-investigation policy, if “several years have elapsed since the values were last issued,” this is a factor weighing in favour of updating the normal values.<sup>6</sup> As discussed in detail below, ADM and Permolex have evidence demonstrating that there have been significant changes in subject country selling prices and costs of production such that the normal values from early 2020 are no longer reflective of current prices and costs.

IV. THERE HAVE BEEN SIGNIFICANT CHANGES IN WHEAT GLUTEN SELLING PRICES

There have been significant changes in wheat gluten selling prices since the CBSA’s investigation. Specifically, selling prices in the subject countries have increased materially since April 2020.

ADM has [

]. Since April 2020, [

These data show that prices in [ ] alone have increased materially.

[ ] wheat gluten average selling prices [ ] increased from [ ] in April 2020 to [ ] in September 2021, an increase of [ ] percent. See Table 1, below. Given that [

These price changes mean that the normal values based on s. 15 of the SIMA are no longer reflective of subject country market prices and would justify a normal value review.<sup>8</sup>

V. THERE HAVE BEEN SIGNIFICANT CHANGES IN COSTS

Producers of wheat gluten have been increasing their prices due to corresponding increases in raw material costs. ADM has obtained costs from [ ] to produce wheat gluten at [ ] plant. [ ] has prepared a report that shows (a) the monthly unit price of wheat and (b) the monthly unit price of flour. As Table 2 show, the price of wheat increased [ ] percent and the price of flour increased by [ ] percent between April 2020 and September 2021.

The Marche A Terme International de France (“Matif”) Milling Wheat futures suggests that the price of wheat actually increased [ ] across Europe. Matif is the global benchmark for the price of milling wheat in Europe and tracks the average wheat price per tonne for contracts entered into each day. As shown in Figure 1, between May 4, 2020 and November 30, 2021, the Matif futures increased from EUR 196.5 per tonne to EUR 279.50 per tonne, a 42.2 percent increase.

These cost increases, therefore, mean that the previously issued normal values do not reflect current market conditions. Again, as the re-investigation policy notes, where “the costs and domestic selling prices of the goods have risen considerably over the past two-year period” a normal value review may be justified.<sup>11</sup>

VI. THE EURO HAS DEPRECIATED SIGNIFICANTLY

In March and April 2020, the average EUR/CAD exchange rate was 1.53. Since then, the Canadian dollar has significantly appreciated relative to the euro in 2021, with the November month to date average EUR/CAD exchange rate now at only 1.43.<sup>12</sup> This 6.5 percent decrease in the exchange rate underlines how important it is to keep the normal values up to date and reflective of current market conditions because the 6.5 percent slide in the converted Canadian-dollar normal values allows the European exporters to compete more aggressively in Canada.

VII. CONCLUSION

ADM and Permolex submit that there are compelling reasons to initiate a normal value and export price review of subject imports from France and Lithuania. Such normal value and export price reviews are critical to the ongoing enforcement of the Finding and to ensuring that the Finding provides the protection afforded to ADM and Permolex under the SIMA.

ADM and Permolex would be happy to answer any questions the CBSA may have about this request, either directly or through counsel.
